Getting Tough on GRAFFITI

You may not have heard about it yet, but there's a "war" on in the Kerrisdale Village area and the main casualties are the premises of BIA members. It's all about vandals spraying graffiti on buildings up and down the back lanes between Larch and Maple Streets. It's bad enough to clean up after individuals out for a night of stealth spraying, but it's worse when one vandal takes on another in an out-and-out war where paint becomes the prime ammunition.

Report Suspicious Behaviour

Community Police Constable Ray Gardner is asking all Kerrisdale businesses to keep a vigilant eye out for any suspicious behaviour, especially in back lanes. Younger people loitering in these areas, especially if they look like they are concealing something on their person, should be reported right away to the police as a possible suspect of graffiti. The number to call is 604-717-3321.

Paint Over Quickly

Constable Gardner says it is crucial for victims of graffiti to paint their buildings or other parts of their premises as quickly as possible.

Leaving the degradation up can spur other vandals to contribute their own graffiti thereby promoting a vicious cycle. If businesses can not get to painting or cleaning their walls within a few days, they can call the Kerrisdale Community Police Office at 604-717-3434. The Community Policing Coordinator will provide paint and arrange for volunteers to do the painting for you. If you are fussy about the exact colour, the volunteers will not be able to assist you.

The west side of Vancouver has the highest incidences of graffiti in the city. Do your part in eliminating this useless and costly vandalism by keeping watch around your stores and businesses.
